of you.*

"Resigned"

Dear Judy,

Haven't we had fun this year? all our good times!! I hope we see a lot of each other this summer (I know we will). We will have to take a trip. Ha-Ha. Let's have another good baseball game. (In our shorts!) Judy, I really do wish you all the best luck in the world. Always keep that sweet smile on your face.

Best wishes always,

P.S. - I'll have to try missing my bus sometime to! Seriously, let's always keep our friendship. Keep that milk out of the cupboard!!

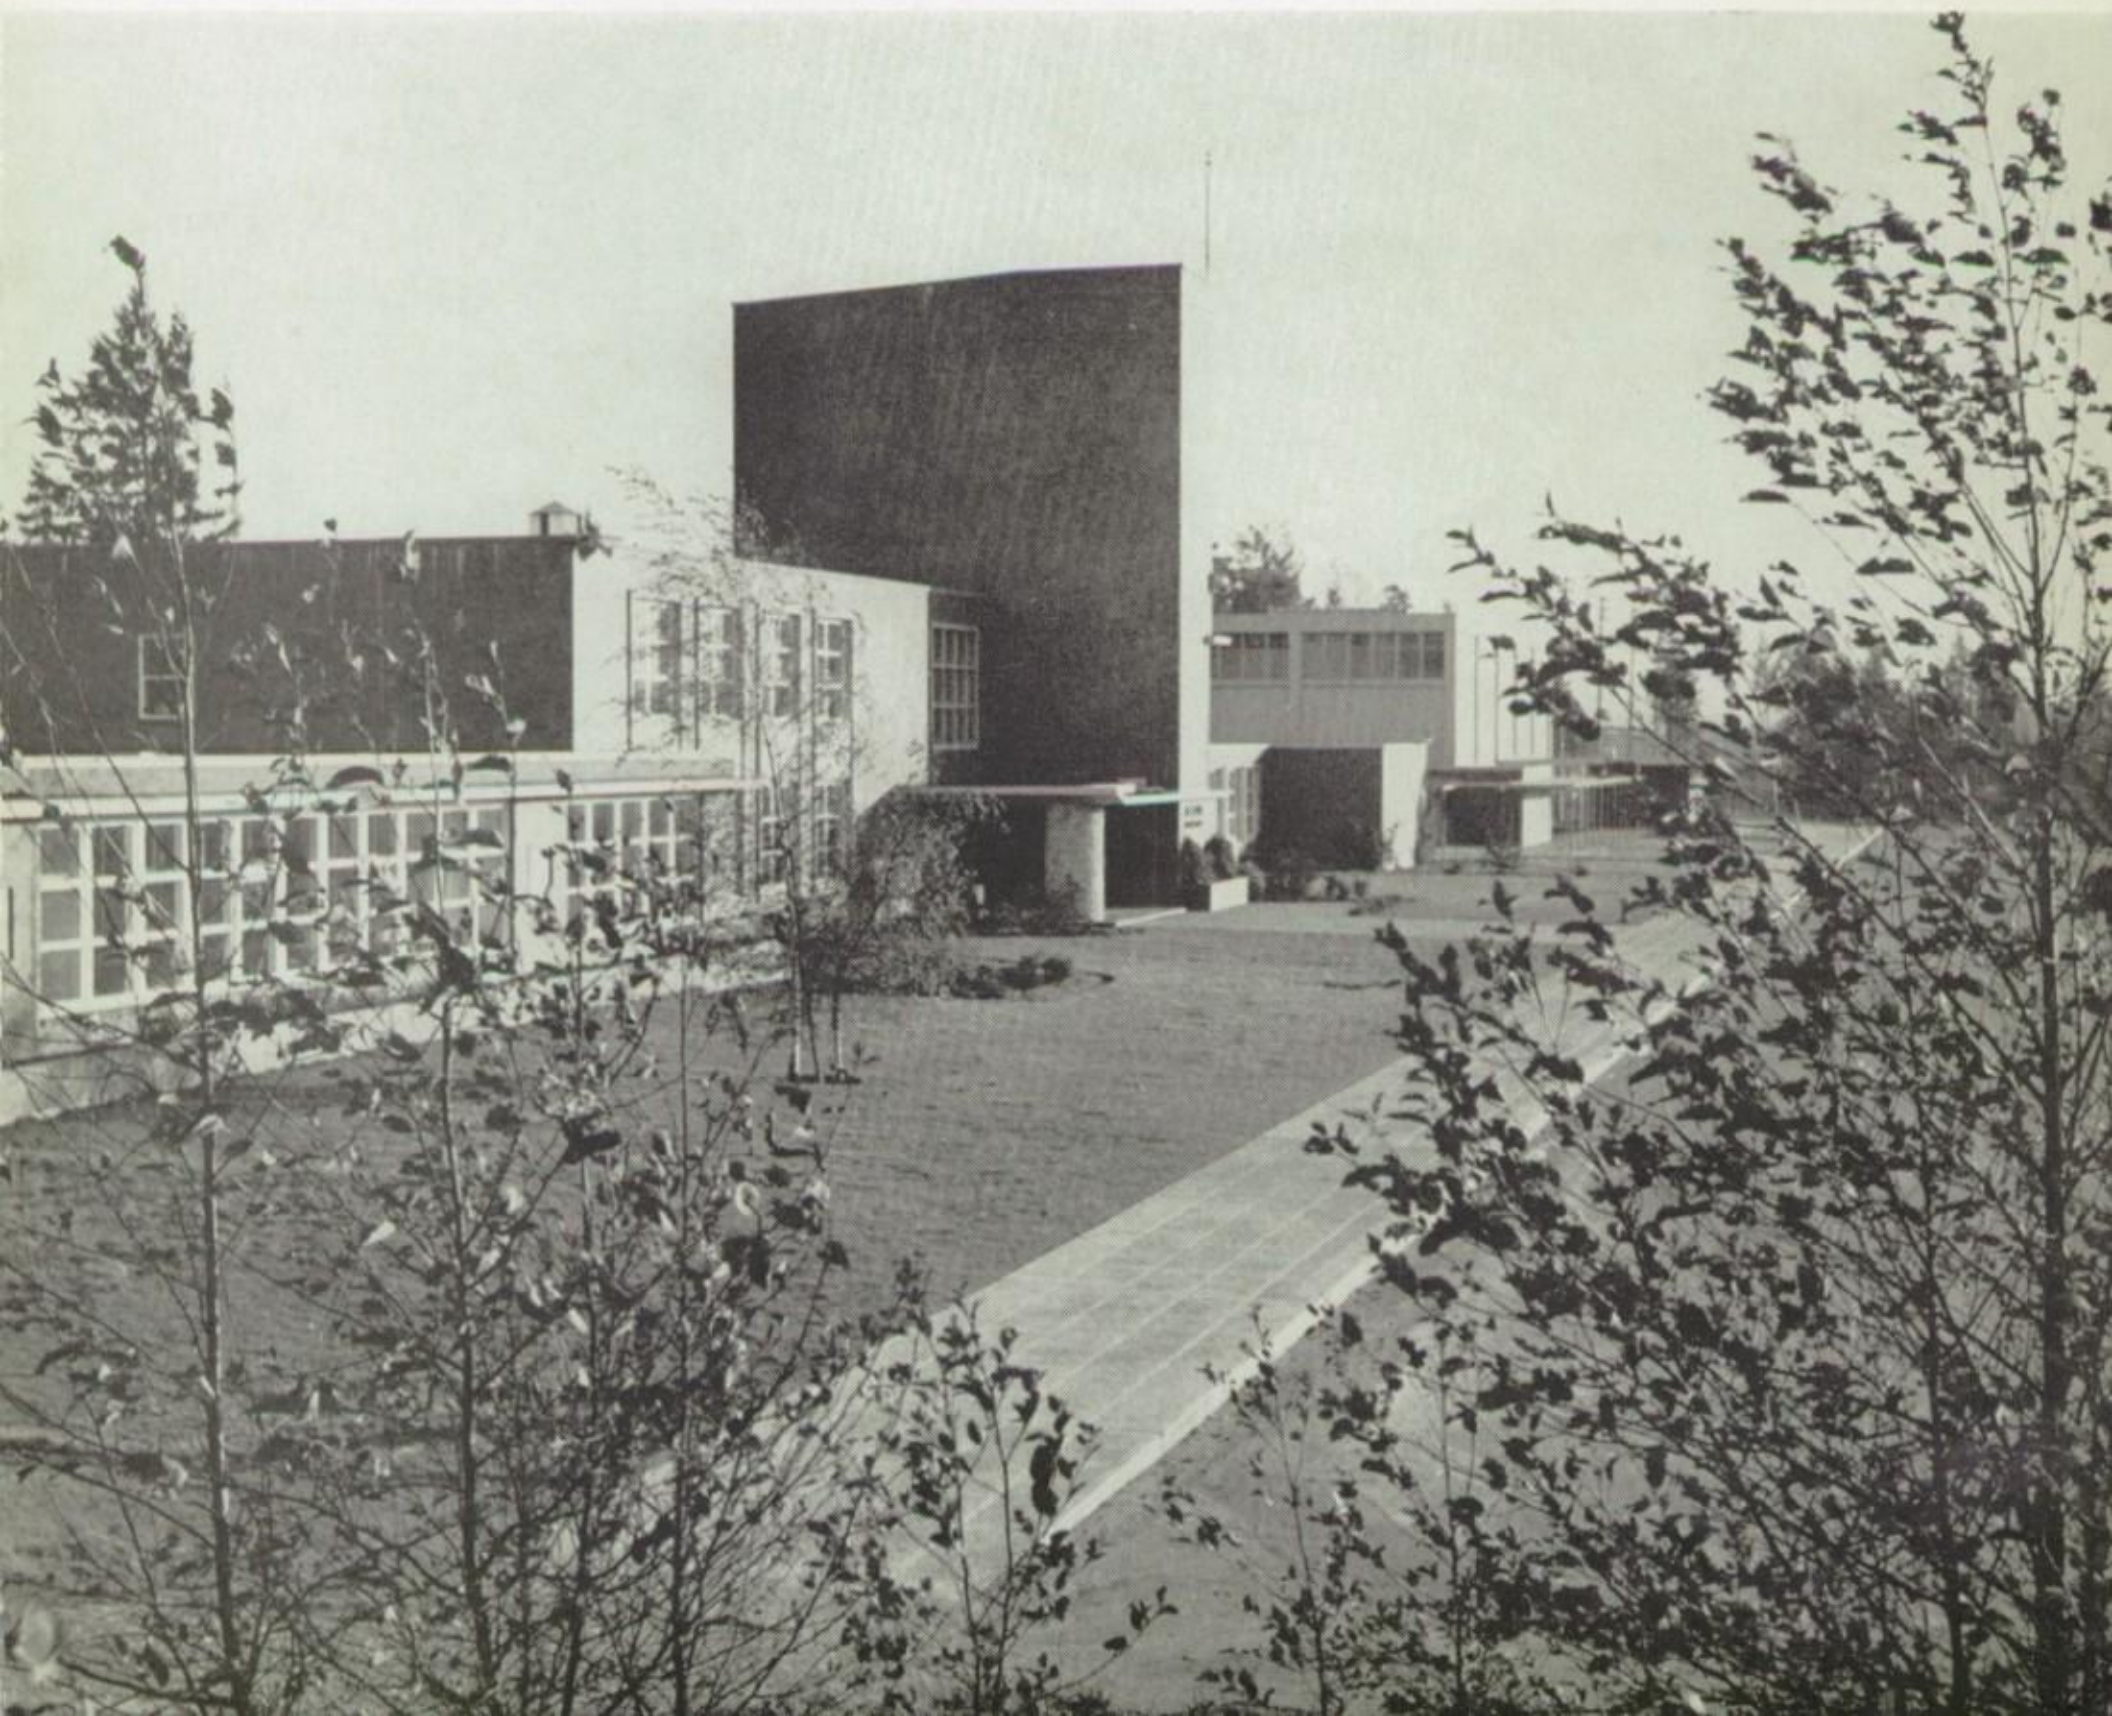

Judy, I hope my easy way doesn't get you into any habits!!

Love,
Julia

BELLEVUE SENIOR HIGH SCHOOL BELLEVUE, WASHINGTON

Carved out among the trees, lies a community of the great Pacific Northwest, and at the heart of this bustling All-America city lies our school, guiding Bellevue's youth to greater achievements.

gether to solve the problems confronting this suburban area as the population steadily increases. On January 4, 1956, a celebration was held in honor of the award, including a parade, a banquet, fireworks and a "governor's ball" in the senior high gym.

IN DEDICATION

who come and go at the office counter, or sit on the long, padded bench, waiting for admittance to the inner sanctum of the advisory staff. For every boy and girl, whatever the errand that brings the student to the office, Mrs. Diamond has a gentle smile, a heartening word, and a hint of motherly advice.

For the teachers too, and for Mr. Heidenreich and Mr. Knoell, Mrs. Diamond's presence at the very center of the life of Bellevue Senior High, means the deep, friendly fellowship of one who has made our school's welfare one of the most urgent concerns of her life.

With love and gratitude we dedicate the 1956 Beacon to Mrs. Ethel Diamond.

At the heart of Bellevue Senior High is that famous place called "the office." There is a very special reason why a radiant warmth seems to spread out from there to all parts of the school. This warmth has its origin in the character of the person who presides over the office — Mrs. Ethel Diamond.

Officially titled "office secretary," Mrs. Diamond is far more than that. To students, teachers, administrators and all others associated with the senior high school, Mrs. Diamond is a great many things — schedule consultant, personal adviser, bulletin printer, duplicating machine expert, cheerful voice on the telephone, receiver and disbursor of money, custodian of keys, welcomer of visitors. But first and foremost in the hearts of all who know her, Mrs. Diamond is a beloved friend.

Mrs. Diamond has two children of her own, Donna and Bob, both graduates of Bellevue, but she has a myriad more children, all the "kids"

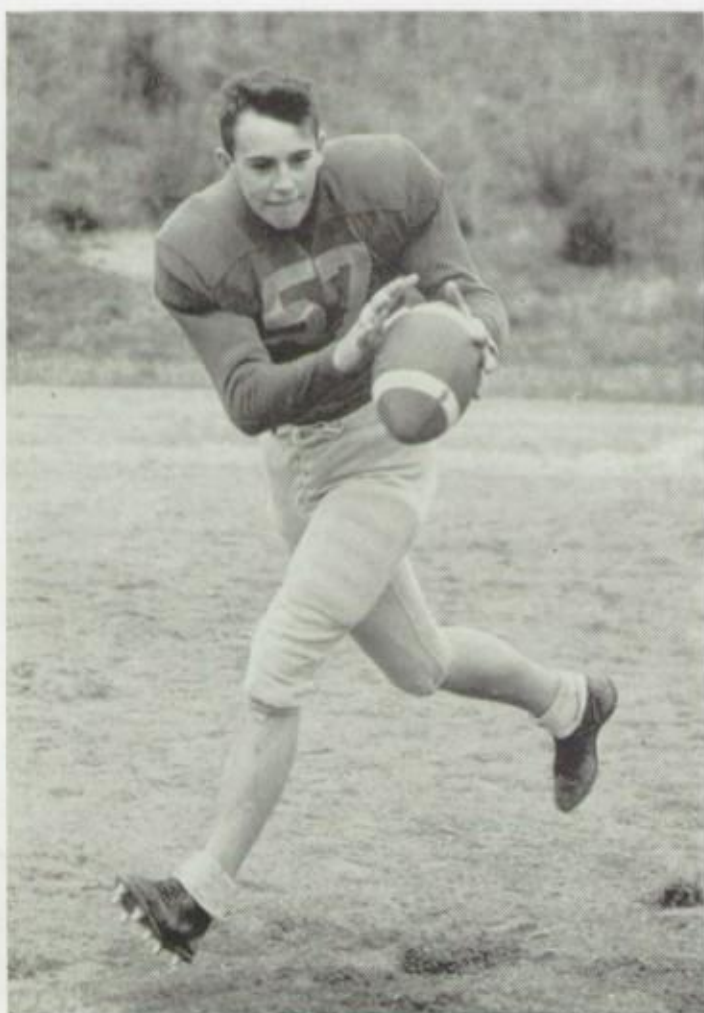

IN MEMORIAM

As a beloved girls' adviser, Mrs. Violet Gustin will always be remembered at Bellevue Senior High School by reason of the tradition of the Violet Gustin scholarship. This scholarship was established by the Girls' Club, to be awarded each spring to a senior girl in need of financial help for college.

Mrs. Gustin, who died on August 21, 1955, was dearly loved by Bellevue girls and by her fellow faculty members for the deep sincerity, her character, her devotion to Bellevue's welfare, and the charm of her personality.

Her memory will always live at Bellevue Senior High School.

In memory of Allan Foutch, a member of the class of '56 who was noted for spirit, sportsmanship and athletic ability, the Boys' Club of Bellevue Senior High School has established the tradition of awarding the Allan Foutch memorial trophy to a senior boy chosen as the year's outstanding athletic leader.

Allan, who died on August 6, 1955 in an automobile accident, was well known for his ability in football, track, tumbling and other sports. He will always be remembered for his skill and for his happy smile and fine spirit.

Bellevue students are really busy. Janie Paschall and Tom Davidson pose for an All-America picture....every year, each class paints a Homecoming window in the shopping square.

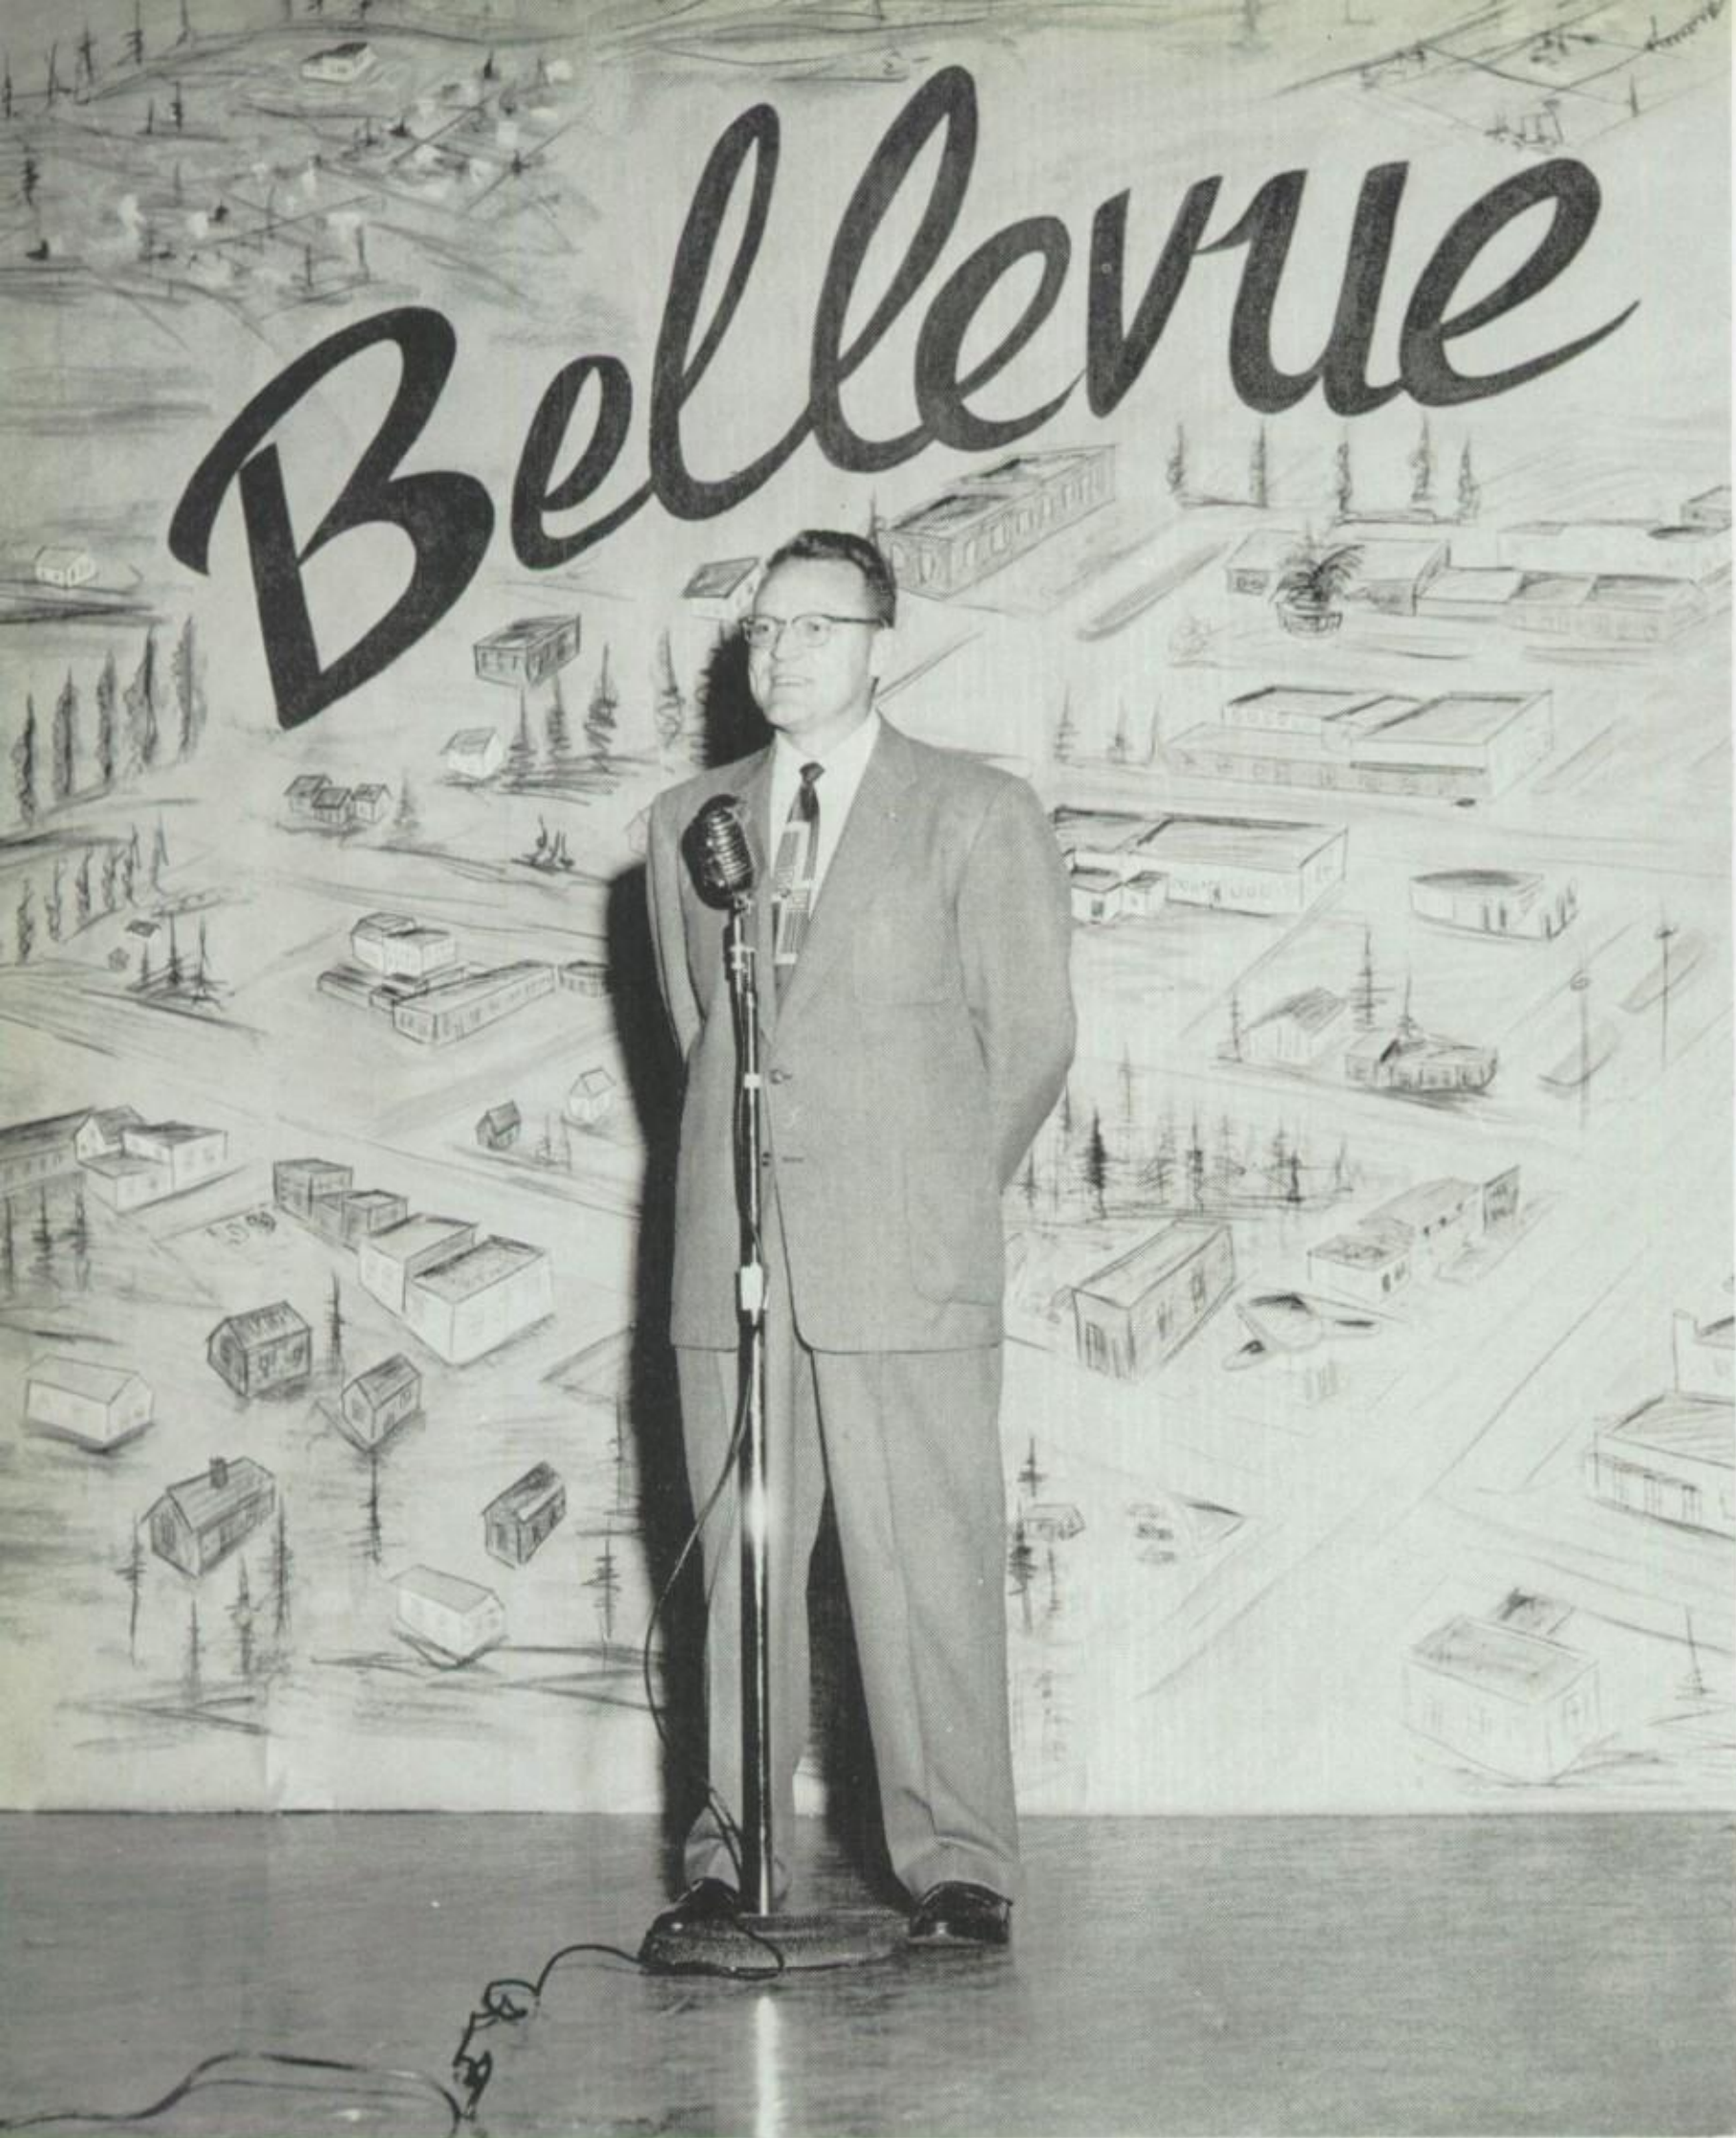

The city of Bellevue is the scene of varied high school activities. Many students work in the stores... the band marches in the All-America Parade.

The girls serve the community in many ways. As peanut saleswomen, they aid the March of Dimes drive, and as members of Spades, they make toys and bibs for spastic children.

Boys may like to pass time fishing when they are young, but older boys in the Wolverine Guard can always be found busily performing many important services around school.

ADMINISTRATION . . .

All-American leaders, through understanding, guidance and knowledge, inspire us to greater accomplishments

MEET BELLEVUE'S MAN OF THE YEAR

Bellevue's All-America City award can be attributed in a high degree to its outstanding school system headed by Mr. George Brain, elected "Young Man of the Year" by the Bellevue Junior Chamber of Commerce. Mr. Brain has worked diligently for the past few years building our school district into one of the finest in the nation.

As superintendent, Mr. Brain introduced up-to-the-moment teaching techniques and promoted educational television. Last summer he was chosen to attend the Superintendents' Workshop at Columbia University.

Mr. Brain has been an enthusiastic spectator at Bellevue Senior High School sports events, and a solid supporter of the worthwhile projects that we have undertaken. We offer sincere thanks to this outstanding educator, Mr. Brain, for the work that he is doing in making our school system truly All-American.

HE HAS PLANS FOR US

National recognition of Bellevue Senior High as a leading secondary school is largely due to our principal, Mr. Harold Heidenreich. Mr. Heidenreich has all the qualities of an All-American administrator. The source of his popularity among students is his sincere friendliness. He can often be heard greeting boys and girls warmly by name as he walks through the halls. He never thinks of a student as just an item in a file. To him every Bellevue-ite is an important individual. To Bellevue, he is the best principal in America.

ALL-AMERICAN ADMINISTRATION

Every young person needs adult guidance and help. In the Bellevue School Board and Parent-Teachers' Association the students of Bellevue Senior High found their strongest support. These adult groups spend a great deal of time and energy administering our All-America school system.

LOWER RIGHT: Mr. Joseph Watson

ADVICE GIVEN—ON EXCUSES?

Mr. Knoell, a Washingtonian from 'way back, attended both Central Washington College of Education and the University of Washington. He is vice-principal of Bellevue Senior High School and has the complex job of arranging the students' schedules of classes. Apparently he enjoys this however, because he says that his favorite pastime is work!

Two people often seen around the office are Miss Aasen and Mr. Watson. New to Bellevue this year, Miss Aasen has three classes in sophomore English and is girls' adviser. Mr. Watson teaches physics and geometry and spends his mornings tangling with the many problems of an attendance counselor.

MRS. PHYLLIS ALLEN

Mrs. Allen majored in English at the University of Washington, and was married shortly before coming to Bellevue this year. Besides teaching sophomore English, she is Pep Club adviser. In the summer Mrs. Allen likes to put all thought of English out of her mind, and spend her time loafing beside the lake at her waterfront home.

MISS XENA CARMAN

Miss Carman, besides teaching five periods of senior English daily, devotes many hours outside of school time to directing school plays. She is Drama Club adviser, directed the Drama Club play which was presented at Christmas time, and worked with the music department to produce the operettas.

MR. ROBERT CROWN

Mr. Crown teaches four periods of distributive education a day. Many D. E. students have jobs which Mr. Crown supervises, and he spends a great deal of time talking with their employers. Mr. Crown also is responsible for the adult education night school classes at Bellevue.

MRS. MARTHA DAVIDSON

This year Mrs. Davidson has assumed the position of full-time librarian. Her favorite tasks are helping students find reference material and recommending good books. This last she finds easy to do, since she herself has read many of the library's volumes. Mrs. Davidson is also in charge of visual education.

MR. FREDERICK DeBRULER

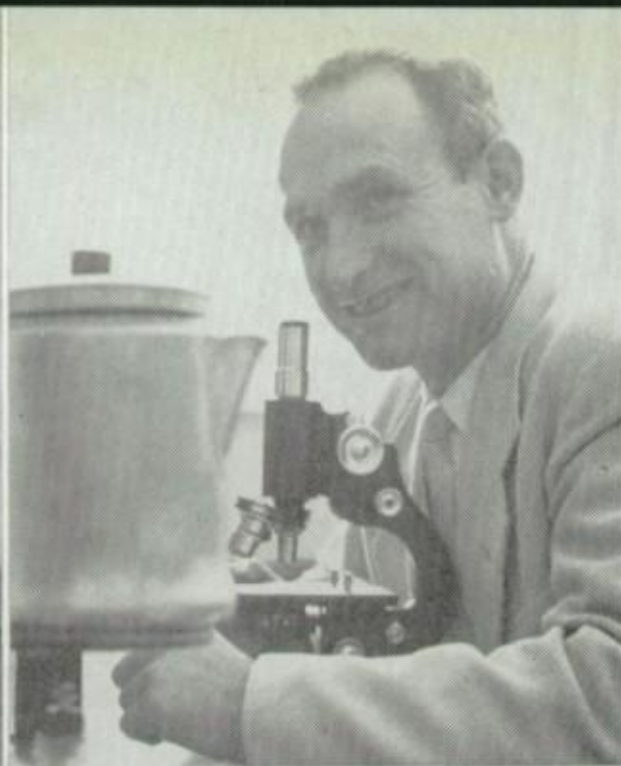

Mr. DeBruler has a varied program, with classes in advanced reading and teacher training, where the students actually get teaching experience in elementary schools. He is adviser to the Wolverine Guard, has appeared in several plays at the Bellevue Playbarn, is a talented singer, and took charge of the '56 Faculty Flips.

MR. DONAL DISTAD

Mr. Distad must have had an especially busy time in college because he majored in history, political science, and journalism! Here at Bellevue he teaches civics, world history, and journalism. His journalism class publishes the Barque. Mr. Distad's pet peeve is people who say, "Are we going to have a quiz today?"

PRESENTING THE BELLEVUE FACULTY A READY SOURCE OF KNOWLEDGE

MR. DAVID GOEDECKE

Those students lucky enough to be near the band room during second period this year were treated to a daily concert as the band practiced. Mr. Goedecke, band leader, who majored in music education, thinks that on some far off day it would be fun to lead a college band.

MR. ARTHUR HAINES

"What are you going to name that cute li'l micro-organism you just discovered, Mr. Haines?" So asks the fascinated student in Mr. Haines' amoeba-and-white-mouse department. In the spring, this instructor of biology, zoology and botany coaches track; in the summer he works as naturalist at Mount Rainier.

Art Haines

MISS MARTHA HARDY

When Miss Hardy is not in room 206 'midst the mobiles made by geometry students, Beacon paste pots, creative writing themes, and calculus papers, she is writing books like Tatoosh, the story of her experiences as a fire lookout, or feeding the squirrels on her tree ranch in the Cascades.

MR. WALTER HOECH

Mr. Hoech's favorite subject is photography, but he also has classes in typing and shorthand. He has his own photographic laboratory at home and spends many hours in the darkroom developing and enlarging photographs. He can be found at all class dances taking pictures of the happy couples.

Martha Hardy

MR. JOSEPH HYLLAND

Mr. Hylland practically lives and breathes music. Besides directing the Bellevue Senior High School choir and chorus in class and many musical functions, he plays the organ in his church and has music classes in other Bellevue schools. In his spare time he likes to fish and play golf.

MR. RICHARD JENKINS

Mr. Jenkins, whose favorite T.-V. program is Cavalcade of Sports, teaches classes in mechanical drawing and United States history. He is very busy with many extra-curricular activities, as he is a senior adviser, ski coach, co-adviser to the ski club, and assistant track coach.

FOREVER LENDING A HELPING HAND, SINCERE, FRIENDLY, JUDICIOUS

MR. LEONARD JONES

Perhaps Bellevue Senior High School's rashest faculty member is Mr. Jones, driver education teacher. Five days a week this courageous man risks life and limb in order that students may learn to drive. During the long, muddy twilights of autumn, he coaches Bellevue's fighting football teams.

MRS. MARY JEAN KEWLEY

Don't ever try to tell Mrs. Kewley that Latin is a dead language! She is practically an authority on the subject, having taken seven years of Latin and majored in it in college. Naturally Mrs. Kewley teaches Latin and she also has classes in German. She is one of the advisers to the junior class.

MR. WILLIAM LAMONT

Mr. Lamont teaches French and English. In extra-curricular time he is weaving curtains to darken his classroom for showing movies. He enjoys working on his car and on the log house he is building for the family dwelling, but his favorite relaxation is playing the guitar or organ.

MR. RAYMOND LINCOLN

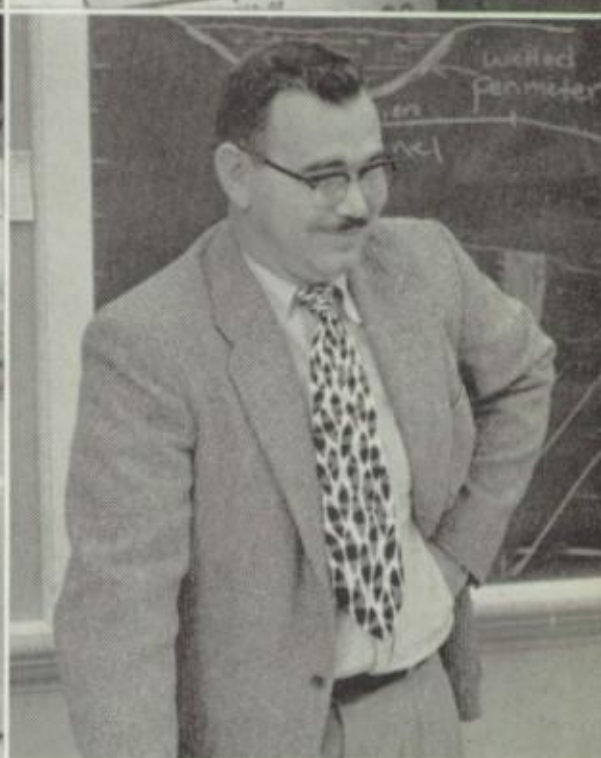

Mr. Lincoln, baseball coach and driver training teacher, is a graduate of Eastern Washington College of Education where he majored in physical education. New to Bellevue this year, he has only one complaint about the school and that is the unpaved parking lot. His ambition is "to get out of school without a wreck."

MISS MARION LONGTIN

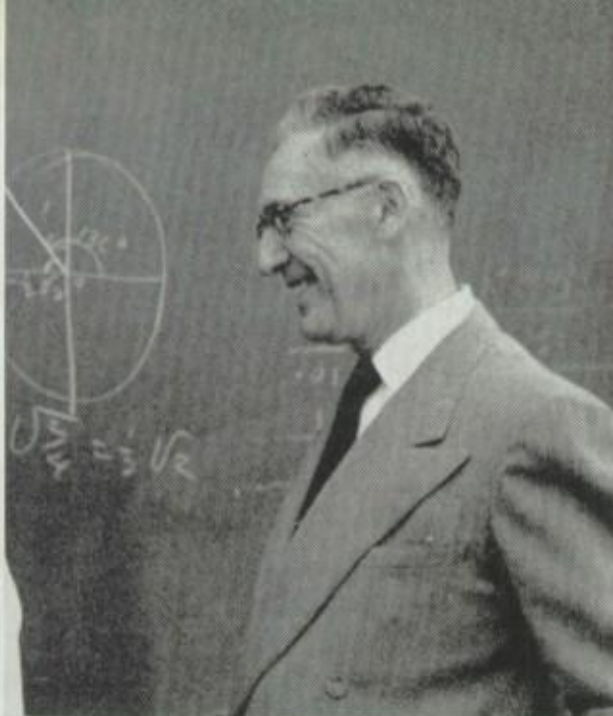

Miss Longtin, a native of Seattle, graduated from the University of Washington where she majored in Spanish and English. This year she taught five periods of Spanish a day, but she says she would prefer a three-hour working day. Her favorite television program is, naturally, "You'll Never Get Rich."

MR. CECIL LOWE

Mr. Lowe, besides teaching geology and United States history, has a class in social living for seniors only, and is the head adviser to the junior class. He caused quite a sensation this year when he arrived on the first day of school sporting a brand new mustache!

ADVISING US, GUIDING US,
HELPING TO MOLD OUR CAREERS

MRS. JEAN MYRE

Mrs. Myre, Bellevue's home economics teacher, received her degree in that subject from Washington State College. She teaches sewing and cooking and even manages to hold down the fort in the boys' cooking class! Mrs. Myre says that she spends her summer vacations practicing her profession.

MR. M. F. ODLE

Mr. Odle, dean of teachers at Bellevue Senior High, has classes in solid geometry, trigonometry, and advanced algebra. As adviser of the Honor Society, he spends many hours keeping the grade point records on every student in school, and working with the club's officers on all Honor Society activities.

MR. ELMON OUSLEY

Mr. Ousley, teacher of speech, debate, and contemporary problems, is best known around school for his work with the debate team which has brought many honors to our school. Mr. Ousley would like to be able to "travel, travel, travel," and, appropriately, his favorite T.V. program is "Wide, Wide, World."

MISS DOROTHY OUTZS

Miss Outzs, girls' physical education teacher, is in charge of both the girls' P.E. program, and the Girls' Athletic Association activities. Miss Outzs coaches the girls' ski team and is co-adviser for the Kandahar Ski Club. She spends her summers traveling and camping, and would like to spend a winter in Switzerland.

MR. GEORGE RIEF

When Mr. Rief isn't busy making up his daily chemistry and biology tests, or acting as adviser for the Stinkers, he is taking care of the five hundred parakeets in the Firwood Aviary, of which he is the proprietor, or is working on and listening to his hi-fi set.

MRS. STELLA ROGERS

Mrs. Rogers has her hands full with typing, bookkeeping, shorthand classes, in addition to Student Steno activities. She spends many hours handling school district accounts that concern the high school. One of her favorite pastimes is planning unique and unforgettable initiations for new Steno members.

NOT ONLY FROM EIGHT TO THREE BUT AT ANY TIME OR PLACE

MR. SAMUEL RUBERG

Mr. Ruberg teaches art, shop, and geography, but his main interest is art. He is adviser to the industrial arts club, and his shop and art students often help with the building and painting of props and scenery for school dramatic productions. He also has an adult art class two evenings a week.

MR. ROBERT STOELT

Mr. Stoelt, boys' physical education teacher, is coach of the outstanding basketball teams of which Bellevue is proud. Mr. Stoelt takes enthusiastic charge of the boys' extensive intramural program, but in his spare time he likes to take to the woods and go hunting and fishing.

MR. JOHN TERREY

Mr. Terrey, new to Bellevue, has many varied interests. He teaches United States history and algebra, and as assistant football coach spends a good part of the fall months working with the team. He enjoys reading, has written several sonnets, and also is actively interested in politics.

MR. ARNOLD TORGERSON

Mr. Torgerson, a graduate of the University of Washington, came to Bellevue this year to teach English. Lacking just six hours of a degree in psychology, he practices the subject in all his classes. He is also a good ball-player and coaches baseball with Mr. Lincoln in the spring.

MRS. MAJORIE RIEDEL

Mrs. Riedel, part-time secretary, is new to Bellevue Senior High School this year.

MISS MAJORIE KIESTER

Miss Kiester, a student teacher in the home economics department, helps Mrs. Myre add the finishing touch to a cake.

FROM HOUR TO HOUR, DAY TO DAY THEY GAVE ANOTHER YEAR TO US

Doug Lovejoy

Janie Paschall

Dave Caldwell

Chris Vall-Spinosa

THEY LED WITH A SMILE

The Bellevue Senior High School student body once more proved itself adept at choosing capable student body officers, who displayed the leadership vital to upholding All-American standards.

Dave Caldwell, president, headed the student council and managed behind-the-scene jobs with diligence and good spirit. His friendly attitude was an example to be followed, his ever-present smile a source of inspiration.

As vice-president, Chris Vall-Spinosa presided over student court and headed the assembly committee. In both these capacities, he exhibited a fine sense of responsibility and a knack for getting along with everyone.

Secretary Janie Paschall not only filled an executive position in the school, but also represented the students of Bellevue at conferences, at other schools, and in community activities.

The job of student body treasurer requires many hours of hard work. Doug Lovejoy, this year's finance manager, spent these hours compiling monthly monetary reports, heading the school's ticket sales, and checking club finances.

The appointive position of school historian was filled by Barbara Tam, whose clever ideas and ability assured her success in office.

The thoughts of all the officers can well be summed up in this statement by Janie, "We would like to thank the entire student body for their cooperation with the decisions of the council, and we appreciate the opportunity given us to take part in student government."

THEY WORKED FOR A BETTER BELLEVUE

Each Wednesday the A.S.B. council convened to aid in the administration of our school.

Highlighting the legislative accomplishments of the council, was the problem of representation and the decision to include club and class presidents, and the planning of a joint sock dance with Lake Washington.

On the "honors" side were visits to Wally's Hi-Jinx, and the inception of Safe-Teens at Bellevue.

Bellevue's student court is an example of an efficient judiciary system. With A.S.B. vice president Chris Vall-Spinosa presiding as judge over two representatives from each class, penalties were imposed upon those who violated proper school procedures.

Such went the board of control this year — young leaders taking part in a representative form of government. The leaders of tomorrow, learning and practicing the rudiments of democracy.

SMILING, SWEET, 'N' SUCCESSFUL

Miss Florence Aasen, girls' adviser, and officers Joyce Grace, Ann McMeekin, Lynn Wheeler, Sue Guest, and Carol Holeton led the Girls' Club through another busy year.

The annual smorgasbord was managed capably by Judy Waugh, and supplied a fun-and-food-filled evening for all.

At Christmas the girls gave toys and presents to needy families, and Allegra Arkley and her committees arranged a gay holiday party.

The highlight of the evening was Mr. Ousley's portrayal of Santa Claus.

Diane Richards was chairman of the tolo with its leap year theme, "The Tender Trap." The week of pre-tolo events, such as mad-middy day, was arranged by Deanne Haggardt.

The Girls' Club completed its year with the traditional Mother's Day tea and the awarding of the Violet Gustin scholarship.

WORKING, WORTHY, 'N' WISE

The Bellevue Senior High Boys' Club had a lively year, led by adviser Mr. Walter Hoech and officers Bob Dootson, Gary Dunn, Ray Harai, and Len Evans.

In February, the Boys' Club co-sponsored a sock dance with the Girls' Club. Joan Bequette and Dave Doupe were co-chairmen of "The Basketball."

With the help of other organizations, the Boys' Club bought a trophy in memory of Allan

Foutch. It will be presented annually to the senior boy who is chosen "athlete of the year."

A series of vocational and professional conferences was sponsored by the club during the second semester. The conferences covered such fields as law, business administration, engineering and aviation.

In late spring, the annual dads' night celebration appropriately climaxed a year of Boys' Club activities.

CLASSES . . .

As a student body unit or as classes, Bellevue students are united by their loyalty to school and country

SENIORS NOW WORLDLY WISE

After four active, well-spent years at Bellevue, the class of '56 will soon be graduating from their All-American school. They have acquired many wonderful memories and experiences, and hope that the class of '56 will be remembered for years to come.

With the leadership of president Tom Van Winkle, the other officers, and the advisers, Mrs. Martha Davidson, Mr. Elmon Ousley, and Mr. Richard Jenkins, the seniors have led the classes in experience, originality and ambition. The newly formed class councils operated this year, and many new ideas were carried out with greatest efficiency.

'Way back in the freshman year, the class of '56 held a worthwhile "Clothes for Korea" drive, and inaugurated the idea of class banquets.

As sophomores, they were the first class to hold a dance in the new gym, and they made the most of their opportunity by presenting "Gaitie' Parisienne." The following year, this ambitious class transformed the gym into a desert castle, and created "Scherherazade," the junior prom.

The class demonstrated its fine spirit at all games, and showed its cleverness by winning the Homecoming plaque two years in a row. In all the athletic teams seniors predominated and gave fine performances.

The seniors have been well represented in dramatic productions, and this year's senior play, "Line of Scrimmage," was a roaring success. Marilyn Stutz and Gordon Dickman skillfully played the lead roles with the aid of a fine cast and production crew.

In April, the senior class had its last and biggest fling, "Midnight Sun," the senior ball. Under the chairmanship of John Milligan and Ben Barker, all the committees worked hard to make this a very sunny midnight.

Also in the month of bursting buds, thirty-six of the senior "brains" took a day off to go on the Honor Society cruise. Then, as the seniors' four years at Bellevue drew to a close, the class had "senior white day," "senior dress-up day," and "teach day" to keep them in the public eye.

The class of '56 has seen the school grow, and for years to come they will look back on their All-American school as the foundation of their happiness in life.

JUNIORS LIVE AND LEARN

As the "middle men on the totem pole" the class of '57, the juniors, worked hard this year at gaining leadership qualities in anticipation of their eagerly awaited senior year.

The juniors were in charge of the 1955 Homecoming, with Jan Fridlund doing an excellent job as chairman. Princesses Judy Waugh and Jan Fridlund were happy to reign over the gala evening their classmates had made possible.

Four of the peppiest juniors, members of the cheer and song teams, were Rola Graff, Bobby Greenlee, Betsy Hodson, and Bev Begg. Everyone is very proud of these gals, who were instrumental in promoting attendance and spirit at the games.

This class's exceptional talent was well represented in school productions. The junior hula line was a main attraction of the variety show and many talented juniors were in individual acts and on production committees. Joan Bequette played the lead in the all-school play, with three juniors performing well in character parts.

Under the able leadership of Gail Dunn and her assistant Nancy Webster, plans were made for the junior prom, "Neapolitan Nights." Bob Marshall provided wonderful music, while King Bill Frye and Queen Shirley Dietrich reigned over an evening in old Naples.

Major and minor sports kept many junior boys busy, both in active participation and as managers for the teams. The juniors shone on the ski slopes and Gary Gisle skied away with the Northwest Cross-Country Championship. As a result he took part in the Junior National events in New Hampshire during March.

Other highlights of the year were the announcement of Marganne Matheson as junior girl of the year, and the junior potluck dinner for the members of the class and their parents.

The success of this class is attributed to the hard work of its fine leaders, Ralph Yoder, president, and Marc Neumann, Phoebe Ann King, Richard Flint, Don Gulliford, Mary Lynne Guest, and Dave Doupe. The fine advisers Mr. Cecil Lowe, Mr. George Rief, and Mrs. Mary Jean Kewley, guided juniors in their endeavors.

In the future the juniors can look back with satisfaction on their projects which helped make Bellevue a better place to live in.

SOPHS BUILD FOR THE FUTURE

After two years as the "big shots" in the junior high, the new sophomores found themselves "babies in the woods" at Bellevue Senior High School. However, they are now making good progress in their climb up the ladder of our All-American school.

Tremaine Arkley, president, was coached by the class advisers, Mr. Art Haines, Miss Marion Longtin, and Mr. Ray Lincoln. First semester officers were Jim Wilson, vice-president; Ruth Dahlstrom, secretary; Pat Dafoe, treasurer. Second semester, vice-president Judd Haverfield, secretary Bonnie MacLean, and treasurer Skip Wilson took over the class leadership.

The spirit of the sophomore class was represented on the football field and basketball court and showed promise for excellent teams in the future. Racing through a slalom course has proved to be the talent of several sophomores. The girls' ski team was helped by Margaret Milligan at Rossland, B. C. Tremaine Arkley and Jim Marshall bolstered the boys' team in the all-city meet.

The contributions of the sophomores helped to make the 1955 Homecoming a traditional success. Their skit drew many chuckles from everyone and their window displayed artistic talent. Joy Ibsen and Judy Hunt represented the class in the Homecoming court.

As the dates of the variety show and all-school play approached, many sophs were seen donning costumes and muttering lines, or busily supplying props, make-up and publicity.

The first major dance of the year was the soph hop. Using the theme "Swinging on a Star." Judy Bartos and Bill Black, co-chairmen, made the youngsters' first big social project a success.

The kidlets finally settled into the academic grind, and readily supported all school functions. The youthful energy and spirit which they brought with them carried through the year to help build a better Bellevue.

HARMONY IN MUSIC DEPARTMENT

The choir, directed by Mr. Hylland, is a group composed of many of the best singers in school. They appeared in nine Christmas concerts, on T.V., in school assemblies and received superior rating at the Northwest Choir Contest-Festival.

Eight choir members attended the State Music Educator's Conference and Alan Lund sang in the National Chorus in Missouri.

Four young men, always ready to burst into song, are the Bel-Hi-Four, Bruce Bloxom, Alan Lund, Chuck Richmond, and Dick Weatherford.

Their singing has brought them ever growing popularity; their cooperation, great respect. The group performed for choir concerts, and the variety show, and local organizations have heard their superior barbershop harmony.

DO, RE, MI, FA, SO THEY SING

The Bellevue Senior High chorus was formed this year as a training group for the choir. Its members worked hard to increase their repertoire and musical knowledge.

The chorus added its voices to the choir for both the Christmas assembly and programs in Bellevue churches. Many members hope to "graduate" into next year's choir.

In their second year of providing entertainment, the junior girls' sextette sang at many school functions including choir concerts, the smorgasbord, variety show and junior potluck dinner. With Sue Chaffins as accompanist, they made local organizations' meetings more enjoyable, and are looking forward to singing even better as the senior sextette.

MUSICIANS ROCK AROUND THE CLOCK

"Work, work, and more work" has been the motto of the Bellevue Wolverine band and majorettes this year.

The band played a large part in keeping spirit high at our football and basketball games. A favorite routine performed on the field was the band's version of "Rock Around the Clock."

Participation in the Santa Claus parade and an appearance as guest band at the Ice Parades added to the band's prestige. Concerts included the second annual winter concert and cakewalk and a spring concert shared with the choir.

Bill Constans and Beth Allen spent a busy three days in Spokane as Bellevue's representatives to the all-state band.

The long awaited trip to Wenatchee was prefaced by the presentation of the honor band banner at an A.S.B. assembly.

Mr. Goedecke established a high goal for future bands to achieve.

BAND SHAKES THE BLUES AWAY

An energetic group, the Bellevue Senior High dance band, works hard and loves it. Although it is a comparatively new organization, it is recognized throughout the community as an excellent source of entertainment.

Its numerous activities included appearances at the Christmas concert and at the All-America City award ceremony. The band often provided music for local service clubs, and its rhythm and blues brightened many a shin-dig at both the junior and senior high schools. Members practiced long and hard to help make the variety show a success.

Mr. Goedecke, director, and the group rehearsed faithfully once a week and kept the outfit really "rockin' an' rollin'."

WHEN SENIORS CALLED THE SIGNALS

The hard-hitting comedy, "Line of Scrimmage," was what the seniors chose to display their histrionic talent.

Seeking to portray typical high school life, the production was characterized by an interesting set, experienced actors and an enthusiastic production crew. The play revolved around the high school principal "Morry" Morrison, played by Gordon Dickman, a wise-cracking secretary, Madge Collins, portrayed by Marilyn Stutz, and Jim Garrison as Stanley Grappleneuskey, a star football player talented in flunking exams. The prize scene showed the principal and his secretary having their own football line of scrimmage in the inner office.

Faculty director Miss Carman, and student director Beth Allen spent hectic hours on coaching and production details, and have reason to be proud of "Line of Scrimmage."

"DATE BATE" CATCHES A CROWD

On March 23 and 24 the gym was crowded with spectators drawn by the catchy appeal of the all school play. "Date Bate" kept its audience in a state of rapt attention the evening through.

The play was excellently cast; much work went into the rehearsals; and many willing hands assisted behind scenes to help make this play night a date to remember.

The play had the well-known theme of an ugly duckling who turned into a lovely swan, but with a novel, amusing twist. Joan Bequette, as Emily Walker, played the awkward adolescent, and Jim Garrison played her horn-tooting boy friend, Harvey Allan.

Miss Carman, the adroit director of "Date Bate," with the help of Beth Allen, student director, made this play one that we will all chuckle about in years to come.

MEMORIES WERE MELODIC

"Memories and Melodies," the 1955 variety show, for two successive nights reviewed the developments of American music. It had a cast of ninety and a most cooperative production crew. The dance band accompanied many acts and entertained at intermission.

Alan Lund, student director, and his assistants Jean Wallace and Sue Chaffins, worked hard to coordinate the variety of acts including both returning favorites and new talent.

Memorable appearances were Roger Robinson's rendition of an old Negro spiritual, the seniors' Mock Wedding, and the juniors' Doll Dance. The evening of entertainment was well rounded by pantomines, ensembles, comedy acts and acrobatic dances.

Under the guidance of Mr. Hylland, "Memories and Melodies" was one of Bellevue's superior productions.

SMILES AND VICTORY GREET GRADS

The boards of the memorial stadium creaked as Bellevue rooters, loyal Bellevue fans and returning alumni cheered the victory. Excited princesses heard the news as they smoothed imaginary wrinkles out of their formals. The dance band began to tune up as the hundreds of students and alums prepared to climax the evening by attending the homecoming dance and coronation of queen, Daphne Morris, and princesses Ann McMeekin, Ann Radford, Jan Fridlund, Judy Waugh, Judy Hunt and Joy Ibsen.

Pre-game activities included a pep rally, skits by all the classes and the painting of windows in the square to advertise homecoming.

"O. K. IS EVERYBODY READY?"

"We're from Bellevue; no one could be prouder!" Students of Bellevue Senior High take this cheer to heart. They take pride in the many things about Bellevue, including the cheer and song leaders.

The students are justly proud of these spirited, All-American leaders, for they have made the cheering section of Bellevue famous for its pep and enthusiasm and have developed speedy and original routines.

Two boys and two girls made up Bellevue's first team cheerleaders. They were Diana Dorland, Daphne Morris, Bob BeVan and Ed McGuire. Songleaders were Pat Barry, Janine Fike, Judy Tjossem and Rola Graff. Bev Begg, Bobby Greenlee and Betsy Hodson were second team cheerleaders.

SPIRIT AND ENTHUSIASM ROSE . . .

With only eleven returning lettermen Coach Jones and Coach Ewing were faced with the problem of training a green squad into the powerful football team for which Bellevue has become known during the last few years. Workouts were hard and every boy on the team learned how tough conditioning and fundamentals could be.

Bellevue got off to a slow start by losing to the Enumclaw Hornets; two more defeats followed. But when the league games began, Bellevue, hardened and experienced by play against some of the state's toughest teams, (Cont'd next page) came to the top to place second in the league.

In honors of the after-season, Bellevue was well represented on the all-conference teams. Roy Hilliard, in his first year as letter winner, was made a member of the offensive first team. Bob Dootson and Dennis Hurt were both members of the defensive first team. Senior letterman Bill Mickel and juniors Brant Norquist and Rollie Barry received honorable mention.

Bellevue fans will long remember the fine showing made by this year's football team.

ELMER'S FUTURE

The junior wolverines began their football careers this year in an active way. This being their first at real hard football, many of them found the practices long and hard. Coaches John Terrey and Ray Lincoln turned the young and inexperienced bunch into a group that will be well received by the varsity next fall.

Mason Emanuels and Dave Williams did excellent jobs as managers of the football team.

THEY'RE FROM BELLEVUE...

In early November, basketball shifted into the athletic spotlight. With lettermen Grant, Caldwell, Dunn, Van Winkle and Evans forming a solid foundation, the Wolverines began league play.

Bothell, Foster, and Lake Washington all fell prey to the Wolverines. A close loss to league champs Mount Si and a strong win from Issaquah rounded out the first half of the regular schedule. The second half of league play was not as successful, as Bellevue lost to Foster, Lake Washington and Mount Si. A win over Issaquah completed the regular season. This left the Wolverines in a tie for third place. (Cont'd next page)

... AND WE COULDN'T BE PROUDER

A play-off game was set between Bothell and Bellevue. Bellevue won strongly and then faced Peninsula High for the berth in the West Central Sub district tournament. The Wolverines emerged victorious and took their place in the district tournament. Here the opponents proved to be too strong for Bellevue, with losses to Kent-Meridian and Renton.

As post-season honors, Bellevue placed its top scorer, Doug Grant in the KingCo all league team, while Dave Caldwell and Gary Dunn were selected for the second team.

TOMORROW'S STARS

The second team's efforts were rewarded this year with second place in their league. Possessing very little experience, the members can well be proud of their showing.

A special word of gratitude should be extended to Fred Barnhart, Bob Matheson, and Steve Johnson, who did an excellent job as managers. With their co-operation, the success attained by the basketball teams was made a much easier task for all.

SPEED AND AGILITY WENT A LONG WAY

Spring found a group of enthusiastic athletes out on the track. For the first time in his six-year experience at Bellevue, head coach Art Haines was aided by an assistant, Dick Jenkins.

Bolstered by the return of twelve lettermen, the thin-clads went on to a successful season for Bellevue. Senior letterman, Jim Greydanus made a sparkling show with the discus, the hurdles were dusted by juniors Bill Frye and Jim Addington, and senior high jumper and pole vaulter Doug Grant made many more fine showings.

WORTH THEIR WEIGHT IN DIAMONDS

Aiming for their second league championship in as many years, the Wolverines started their baseball season with justifiably high hopes. This ball club again showed the spirit and hustle for which Bellevue teams have long been noted.

With only six returning lettermen, head coach

Ray Lincoln and pitching coach Arnold Torgerson pooled their talents to cope with the many problems which arose. Most of these difficulties were worked out early in the season and the Bellevue Wolverines played good ball in the KingCo League battle.

"COURTED" VICTORY, "NETTED" SUCCESS

Bellevue's tennis team, although suffering from the graduation of nearly half its last year's members, put the Wolverines over the top to victory.

Dick Kraft, Rick Fluegel, Judy Schurr and Marje Lewis showed great skill, and Mr. Lowe tennis coach was pleased with the racquet wielding of sophomores Phil Cacabelos and Pat Dafoe.

This year Bellevue again reigned over the league, which was expanded to include Mercer Island High School.

With this fine record, Bellevue's net stars turned to the possibility of tennis as a major sport in the near future.

Coach Art Haines had his golfers out on the Overlake links early this year in preparation for the oncoming season. Jim Manlowe, Dick Chubb, Corky Benton, and Doug Grant were the top men, and they were capably backed by senior Dick Kraft, and Lance Jensen, John Fernandez, Carlton Nau, Will Taylor, and Greg Lewis, who will be back next year.

Bellevue lost first place in the league by a close margin when the boys were defeated by Bothell on a rain-swept course. They did capture second place and made a very creditable showing.

This year's ski team, coached by Miss Outzs and Mr. Jenkins, showed All-American form. In the All-City the boys' team was fourth, paced by Gary Gisle and Mike Seidelhuber in the cross-country and Tremaine Arkley and John Milligan in the alpine events. The girls' team won the slalom and down hill events to place first in the combined. At Rossland, B. C., the girls again displayed their outstanding team ability, coming in second. In the Beta Cup, the boys' team tied for third, sparked by Tom Alexander in second place.

A GOOD TIME, A VALUABLE LESSON

More interest than ever before was shown in the intramural program this year and it was enjoyed by many boys who did not participate in a major sport.

Football opened the program in the fall. A football field was set up on the new baseball diamond and there were many hard-fought games played. At the end of the season, Len Evans' team was on top.

Probably more boys participated in basketball than in any other sport. There was a total of ten teams taking part; three from each class and one from the faculty. At the season's completion, Mike Clarkson's team was the school champion in intramural basketball.

...SKILL IN SPORTS AND MAKING FRIENDS

The most popular spring sports were softball and archery. There was also a fine display of hitting and fielding across the baseball diamond. Many of the boys who participated in archery last year were back again this spring and the air sang with arrows as they were shot true and sure to their marks.

Intramurals also stimulated an interest in many minor sports. Large numbers of boys turned out for ping ping, badminton, volleyball and horse-shoes. Under the guidance of Mr. Stoelt, adviser, and Jim Martine, student manager, the boys' intramural program provided relaxation and helped build strong bodies for many Bellevue boys.

Sports are an integral part of almost all the lives of Bellevue Senior High School students. Both girls taking P.E. and those who did not could be found taking part in the after-school intramural program, guided by Miss Outzs. Throughout the year, a wide variety of activities was offered.

On sunny days in the fall, field hockey enthusiasts donned their shin guards, grabbed their hockey sticks, and became well versed in this popular sport. When rain forced the girls inside, they enjoyed playing volleyball.

The basketball season brought many good times to all participants in the intramural program. Several teams from each class were formed. Games were played and all teams competed against each other in a round robin tournament.

SUNSHINE STARTED FIELD HOCKEY VOLLEYBALL CAME WITH THE FROST

Bellevue's gym has almost everything needed for practically every indoor sport, but it doesn't have a bowling alley. Miss Outzs, firmly believing that bowling should be included in all intramural programs, remedied this situation several years ago. Now, once a week, bowlers take the school bus down to the bowling alley in Bellevue.

Up on the balcony, rhythmic bounces are heard during the winter and spring of the year. Both boys and girls taking part in the tumbling program are practicing there on the trampoline. They also practice many stunts on the tumbling mats and parallel bars.

The warm spring breezes blew many badminton birds into the gym. All who desired signed up for games of singles, doubles and mixed doubles in the annual badminton tournament.

HELPING TO BUILD A BETTER BELLEVUE

The All-American leaders of Loyalty Club can be seen in anything from their blue and white uniforms to long underwear and hula skirts with crazy hats. The "Mad Hatter" was the theme of the Loyalty Club sock dance.

This senior service organization, under the leadership of Mrs. Myre, adviser, and Linda Eastham, president, kept the teachers' room tidy and painted the teachers' names on their coffee cups.

Residents of an old folks' home were appreciative of the small tray favors made by Loyalty members and their Christmas caroling.

Being tired of wading through "mountains" of popcorn, Loyalty Club sponsored "clean-up week."

Everywhere one turns, in the halls of Bellevue Senior High School, there can be seen a Wolverine Guard member rendering a valuable service to the school. Besides helping enforce the school rules, the Guard members are always called upon to do miscellaneous jobs. In everything from setting up chairs to cleaning up the grounds, these boys are always willing.

The members of the guard are selected twice each year for their past demonstrations of service and leadership in the school.

This year's Wolverine Guard was headed by a fine cabinet: Tom Davidson, chancellor; Doug Grant, vice-chancellor; Tom Alexander, ex-chequer; and Bill Mickel, scribe. Mr. De-Bruler, faculty adviser, was always around to lend a hand.

HIGH AIMS NET BIG GAINS

Members of the Girls' Athletic Association turned out for hockey, archery, basketball, tumbling, baseball, badminton, and bowling. They sponsored splash parties, a mother-daughter sports night, and a basketball play-day in which all KingCo League schools participated.

Led by Miss Outzs, adviser, and Andrea Chew, president, G.A.A. promoted an All-American spirit among the girls of Bellevue Senior High School through athletics and good sportsmanship.

Highlighting Lettermen's Club activities this year was the smoker. For this evening of sports activities, Mr. Jones, adviser, spent much time training the members to get them into shape. The smoker featured both students and faculty members in boxing matches and the annual basketball game between the faculty and the intramural All-Stars.

Pete Paget, president, Doug Grant, vice-president, and Bill Mickel, secretary-treasurer, led Lettermen's Club as it helped with the intramural program and promoted sports for all boys.

ACADEMIC ACHIEVEMENT HONORED

One incentive for concentrated academic effort at Bellevue Senior High School is membership in the Honor Society, the oldest organization in our school. Admission to Honor Society is based on semester grades. A member must have seventy points at the beginning of his junior year, one hundred points at the beginning of the senior year, and one hundred and thirty points at the end of the senior year. Juniors are awarded pins, and the seniors are awarded torch pins which they are allowed to keep if they have earned the full 130 points by graduation.

The high point of the year for Honor Society members is the Honor Society cruise in the spring, all members being excused from school for a day. They meet at the Beaux Arts dock in the morning, board a boat there, and set sail for a day of fun on Puget Sound. This year they went to Illahee State Park, where they had a wonderful time and arrived back at the dock at nine thirty, tired, dirty, and thoroughly happy.

This cruise is financed by the Honor Society raffle during the months of March and April. Each member sells at least one book of raffle tickets. Everyone in school is allowed to sell tickets, and the boy and girl outside Honor Society who sell the most tickets are allowed to go on the cruise. Also a $25 Frederick & Nelson gift certificate is given to the winner. The drawing is held at the senior ball.

This year's Honor Society, with the leadership of Don Hansen, president, and Mr. Odle, adviser, has helped to promote interest in truly patriotic standards of scholarship.

KINGCO CHAMPS TAKE A BOW

Resolved: That the educational privileges granted to the veterans should be accorded to all qualified youth in the United States. This was the question considered by members of this year's debate club.

Officers, Chuck Comeau, Judy Anderson, and Don Hansen, helped the club to bring much recognition to our school. Members were seen announcing the choir on television, sportscasting at football and basketball games, and announcing the numbers at the annual band concert.

Bellevue was host to two debates this year, and did well in contests at other schools. This year's first debate was the University of Washington speech festival in November. Next was the Seattle University debate in December at which Chuck Comeau was third in oratory. In February, the team participated in the Pacific Lutheran College debate tournament, the largest in the world, with over 1,000 debaters present. Keener Boyce was fourth in extemp division B and Chuck was first in division A oratory. Another February debate was the KingCo Conference at which Pat Clement and Kay Moberg won the championship. This team, also, was second in the debate at Olympia in March.

Chuck Comeau, as a result of his fine debating record, was chosen by a Seattle group to take a week's trip East, in the spring, where he spoke in New York, Pennsylvania, and before Congress.

Mr. Ousley, club adviser and debate coach, was chosen by the Washington State Debate Coaches Association, an organization of which he is the president, to attend a meeting of debate coaches from all over the United States to discuss the debate question for next year.

CHEMICAL . . . AND COLORFUL

Every Wednesday the "Society for Technical Information Not Known Elsewhere 'Round School," or Stinkers, was found creating small explosions and horrid smells in the chemistry laboratory.

This year with the help of Mr. Rief, the science club presented a half-hour TV show demonstrating various chemical phenomena useful in housekeeping.

Some of these science fiends entered the Westinghouse "Talent Search."

Under the guidance of Rich Newell, president first semester, and Bruce Bloxom, second semester prexy, the members of the club greatly increased their knowledge and understanding of chemistry and physics.

Brightening the halls with art exhibits and assisting Bellevue merchants with window displays were just two of the many accomplishments of the Bellevue High School Art Club this year.

Besides having the honor of three club members assisting the judges in a Scholastic Art Awards contest, many members, with the guidance and encouragement of Judy Rogers, president, and Mr. Ruberg, adviser, entered a competition in which the theme was "typical life in the United States." They were well qualified in this field being citizens in an All-America city.

BOOK STAMPERS—BULLETIN CARRIERS

"Fun" is the way work in the library has been described. It is also an opportunity to learn public relations and the method of running a library.

The librarians like to read and their interests are the same as yours. When you have questions about books, ask a student librarian or Mrs. Davidson. They will be glad to help you.

Mrs. Davidson and all the librarians are looking forward to moving into the new library, which will be equipped with more books and library facilities.

Those cheerful girls who come into your classrooms with special bulletins, messages for the teachers, and notes which release you from class, are known as the office girls.

These willing workers sacrifice their study halls to help Mrs. Diamond run the office by running errands, filing excuses, tracking down teachers, answering the telephone, collecting and checking absentee cards, typing, writing tardy slips, helping Mrs. Diamond keep the office clean, and doing all the little but important odd jobs which make the office run smoothly.

THEY "DISPLAYED" GOOD WORK

Perhaps the most noticeable activity of the Distributive Education and Retailers' clubs is the operation of the student store. This constitutes only a small portion of the activities these clubs support. They sell ice-cream at lunch, make displays in the school showcases, and as an annual project decorate the foyer at Christmas, and collect toys and food for the needy families in Bellevue.

Outside school these clubs do much for the community. They help publicize Bellevue at the Home Show, sponsor Safe Driving day at school, and hold an annual employer-employee banquet.

These clubs represented Bellevue at the state retailers' convention and were led by Mike Steele, president of D.E., Bob Beebe, president of Retailers, and Mr. Crown, adviser.

DIGGING BEHIND THE SCENES

Helping handicapped children is the main purpose of Spades. Projects kept the Stewart Heights School in Kirkland supplied with toys of therapeutic value, and members visited children at the Cerebral Palsy Center at Firlands and in private homes.

Mr. Lowe and officers, Jean Wallace, Carol Holeyton and Gladene Wiswell, led Spades in its helpful efforts.

Here come the men in the little white suits! But don't be alarmed, they are the unsung heroes of back stage. Cooperating to make every production a success, the stage crew builds flats, and is in charge of scenery and lighting. Their duties extend to all productions put on here at Bellevue Senior High, whether school or city performances.

ROOTERS AND REELERS

Have you ever wondered who makes posters for ball games? Ask any pep clubber and you have your answer.

Pep club helped the juniors with Homecoming and earned money selling game programs and sponsoring a sock dance to buy megaphones and a school victory flag. With revision of policies, a pep clubber was honored each month for outstanding services.

Jan Chapman, president, and Mrs. Allen, adviser, made sure the teams were served refreshments after games.

Because we have at Bellevue Senior High School modern audiovisual equipment, such as tape recorders, transcription players, and films, there must be someone to operate these things. This job is done by the projection crew. "They run the show."

For the first semester of this year, the crew was headed by John Anderson, but David Parker, a sophomore, took over during the second half of the year. The adviser of the projection crew is Mrs. Davidson.

BIGGER AND BETTER THAN EVER

Every weekend during ski season, members of Bellevue Kandahar Ski Club could be found ploughing through the snow of Snoqualmie and Stephens passes. With cries of "How's the snow?," and "What wax are you using?," Bellevue skiers invaded the slopes.

Every Saturday for eight weeks, about sixty-five Bellevue skiers attended the Post-Intelligencer ski school at Snoqualmie summit. Under the direction of Loren Prescott, Bellevue instructor, these skiers learned the techniques of safe skiing. Several Bellevue skiers made the racing class and brought home medals. At the final session, the skiers who showed the most improvement received awards.

Among the Bellevue skiers were Miss Outzs and Mr. Jenkins, coaches, and Tom Alexander, ski club president.

To further safe skiing, the ski club sponsored a three part film designed to help all grades of skiers.

To end a perfect ski season, the annual ski club banquet was held in the spring.

ROOM 205 - BHS - HOME OF THE BARQUE

The most memorable journalistic effort of the year was the hilarious "Mad Bark," written and illustrated by the Barque staff. This group, with Pat Dowie and Pat Clement, co-editors, and Mr. Distad, adviser, directing their hectic efforts, produced other literary gems, too. The regular bi-monthly issues were read just as eagerly as the Homecoming issue, the red-ink Christmas issue, the afore-mentioned "Bark," and the spectacular eight-page senior issue which came out in June.

The busy reporters with a nose for news, found dirt in the most unlikely corners, and faithfully wrote it up. "Polishing the Brass," a lowdown on our faculty, and "Life at the Top," a senior expose were some of the special columns.

In February, many staff members attended a press conference at the "U" where they learned facts about publishing a paper with time saving short cuts.

BUSY BEACONEERS OF BELLEVUE

This year's Beacon class had the unique opportunity of publishing an annual featuring Bellevue, our All-America City. With the supervision of Miss Hardy, adviser, Barbara Kaiser, editor, Jean Wallace, assistant editor, and Doug Lovejoy, business manager, work on the Beacon hit a new high for spirit and enterprise.

For pre-sales publicity, members of the staff donned out-landish costumes and went from room to room giving skits. Miss Hardy, dressed as a hill-billy grandma, in calico gown and huge tennis shoes, flapped around school clutching a toy skunk and pulling a wagon.

In the winter's wild weather, students trudged the avenues of Bellevue to bolster Beacon finances by selling ads to merchants.

Always, behind the fun and commotion of "sixth period 206," there was the strong community feeling typical of citizens of an All-America City. It was this spirit that made the '56 Beacon the best and biggest yet.

YULE PAGEANT BECOMES TRADITION

In Drama Club, all budding thespians had a wonderful chance, not only to improve their acting ability, but also to perform for the student body. Besides joining the club to act, many students became members to gain poise and self assurance, and to learn backstage techniques. The ambitious members of this organization worked hard to achieve and maintain high standards in school dramatic productions.

At Christmas, the entire student body enjoyed the club's presentation of "Why the Chimes Rang." The cast of this old Christmas favorite was headed by Margaret Knudsen, Wally Russell and Dave Doupe. Drama club also supported the senior play and the all-school play.

As president of this enthusiastic group, Marilyn Stutz was helped by the hard work of officers Chuck Comeau, Dave Doupe, and Jan Guthrie. Miss Carmen, faculty adviser, kept the "show on the road."

THE POUNDING OF NAILS AND KEYS

An energetic group, Industrial Arts Club, has served the school in the carpentry field. Under the enthusiastic supervision of Mr. Ruberg, these boys built stage sets for school entertainments. They made gavels for clubs, and did many other jobs with woodworking tools.

Ben Barker, president, and the other officers and members pounded away to make this club another All-America Bellevue group.

Many people at Bellevue do not realize how greatly the school is indebted to the Student Stenos. These girls mimeograph exams, print entertainment programs, and do much more of this type of work. This year they sold ads to finance pictures printed in the variety show programs.

Directed by Mrs. Rogers, the Student Stenos also made programs for community events, and served our All-America City in this way.

THEY ENFORCE . . .

Cooperating closely with the State Patrol and the Bellevue Police, the eleven safety-minded students of the Drivers' Council decide penalties against the traffic violators of the school. Students elected to the council remain members until graduation. The judgeships vacated by graduating seniors are filled each year by students elected from the drivers of our student body. Court is called every two weeks.

With adult guidance supplied by Mr. Knoell, and the hard work of president Gordon Dickman, vice president Alan Lund, and secretaries Marganne Matheson and Jane Paschall, the Drivers' Council effected the inauguration of the Safe Teens program in the state of Washington. Gordon and Jane also were active in the planning of the annual King County high school safety conference, which five members of the council attended.

Safe Teens are teenagers who demonstrate, by their own actions, that they are conscientious, safe drivers.

The first Safe Teen organization was founded by Judge Frances Cook in Beaverton, Oregon, on December 17, 1954. In less than a year the movement spread to forty-two states, Canada, and several foreign countries. Exactly one year later, Safe Teens was inaugurated in Washington at our own Bellevue High School through the efforts of the Drivers' Council.

... AND INSURE

There are two requirements for a driver wishing to join Safe Teens. He or she must have a vehicle operator's license in good standing and a certified safety check of the car he or she drives. After passing these two requirements, the teenager receives a membership card and a free bumper strip in the official Safe Teen red and black.

For the enthusiastic cooperation displayed by everyone in producing the 1956 BEACON, we wish to express our sincere thanks. Without such support this yearbook could never have been such a success. Barbara Kaiser, Editor and Doug Lovejoy, Business Manager.

Dear Judy,

Your sophomore year has been a perfect example of a successful year. It's been wonderful knowing you.

I can just barely remember the fun we used to have about twelve years ago (belly- that's a long time). I remember Johnny's first train (or something) he got for Christmas. We took thirty-one to see it, and your dad and mine monopolized the toy while deathly Johnny read comics - And then there was the time when I was at your house. I can't remember what happened, but nobody could make me stop crying.

This year has been fun too. Thank for being so reliable with the team basketball hoop. I think I've through had more fun jumping it than playing it. I got me.

While I'm gone, don't let my mom eat too much; and be sure both our mothers: 1) don't spend all the time drinking coffee 2) don't miss a sales 3) don't carry flowers in the Buick.

Love - looks to the sweetest gal

THE BOUNDARY OF

We students of Bellevue Senior High are fortunate that our school is located in the center of an All-American community. Here, against the background of a blue lake and snow capped mountains, we study, work and play. There are always many facilities, both academic and recreational, available for us to use, and adults are always ready to help us become stronger, better citizens of tomorrow.
